

SST News

News Release For Immediate Release

Media Contacts:

Mark Lampe 317.845.9242

Leslie Galbreath 317.813.2223

Jim May 317.813.2226

Integral Technologies Partners With FirstService Security to Provide Latest in Integrated Technology

Indianapolis, Indiana, May 12, 2005 - North America . Together, Integral and FirstService Security will offer integrated security solutions and exceptional service to businesses of all sizes.

Committed to integration and open systems, Integral's full line of security products offers forward and backward compatibility with existing systems. Integral's digital video management systems boast compatibility with a wide variety of software platforms. This integration extends to the products of more than 25 security, access, and building management companies, offering solutions that enhance and build upon existing partnerships. As a result of Integral's interface capabilities, SST selected Integral's digital video solutions as its preferred line of digital video recording products.

Since its inception, FSS has specialized in the design, installation and service of superior electronic security systems including access control, closed circuit television, high-level alarm, and intercom/emergency communication. The company is devoted to exceeding the expectations of its customers. As a result, FSS recognizes the importance of providing customers with user-friendly solutions and the latest in IT security management.

"Customers truly benefit from total security integration," comments Tom Catagnus, regional president for SST. "By streamlining our current offerings with Integral's digital video recording line of products, our sales staff and service technicians are able to provide the level of quality service that SST is known for."

Specifically, FSS will integrate Integral's enterprise-class DigitalSENTRY and DVX digital video management systems with its access control and CCTV systems in an effort to simplify its security solutions and set the standard in a variety of commercial and industrial markets.

Both Integral and FSS believe that the key to system integration is offering efficiencies in functionality, cost and time management. As two companies with multiple sets of shared goals and values, Integral and SST will continue to build on each other's talents and capitalize on each other's expertise.

"As one of the top integrators in North America, FirstService Security understands the value of offering an excellent product and backing it up with dedicated customer service," says Integral Technologies' national accounts sales manager, Mike Compton. "Integral shares this philosophy and the resulting partnership serves to expand the solutions available to our customers."

ABOUT INTEGRAL TECHNOLOGIES

Integral Technologies is a worldwide leader in design, development, and integration of powerful video, access, and security solutions. With over 10 years of security systems integration experience and the backing of Schneider Electric, Integral Technologies continues to offer innovative, best of class enterprise security systems that are powerful, feature rich, and easy to use. For more information on Integral Technologies' full line of products and services, visit www.integraltech.com or call 317-845-9242.