Security Services & Technologies (“SST”) Announces Acquisition of ISSI

Valley Forge, PA (February 24, 2004)

SST, a leading provider of integrated electronic security systems in North America announced today that it has acquired a majority interest in ISSI-Innovative Security Solutions Inc.

ISSI headquartered in West Palm Beach, Florida provides complex electronic security services to larger corporate and governmental agencies in the Florida and Texas marketplace.

Frank Brewer, CEO of SST added, “I’m excited about our new partnership with the principals of ISSI. We anticipate this acquisition will add to our success by leveraging our 100 plus years of combined management and industry experience to help broaden our services in both the Southeast and Midwest regions.”

James Fairbanks, President of ISSI said, “The strong synergies resulting from this partnership, combined with their quality of work and geographical reach will benefit our clients and position us for added growth going forward.”

Tim Palmer, Executive Vice President of Operations at ISSI said, “We are very excited about our new partnership with a leading player in our industry. SST provides us with increased buying power, enterprise information systems and larger bonding capability. Furthermore, it provides us with the capability to offer our regional clients the accessibility of a broader range of quality products and services nationwide.”

SST is one of North America’s premier system integrators providing innovative products and services for commercial, industrial, utility, healthcare, pharmaceutical, education and Fortune 1000 clients.
